Public Policy & Aging Report

A quarterly publication of the National Academy on an Aging Society bringing you the latest research on the public policy implications of an aging society. Designed to stimulate debate, highlight emerging concerns, and propose alternative policy options, each issue is devoted to a particular aging-related topic. Recent issues have addressed policy issues associated with end-of-life care; technology and aging; health disparities; religion and health; elder abuse and neglect; retirement security among older populations of color; and health care workforce shortages.
